

Nixon may be near rationing decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon met with Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz today in preparation for a later meeting with his Cabinet-level energy group which may produce a "go-no go" decision on gasoline rationing.

Shultz is a member of the Cabinet group who has favored the imposition of a high gasoline tax rather than rationing. The significance of his separate meeting was not clear.

The White House said he was discussing with the President, in addition to the energy crisis, the nation's economy and national and international issues.

Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton indicated Thursday night a decision on rationing might be reached today.

On the ABC television Dick Cavett show, Morton said, "when the supply is not adequate and you're facing a shortage, you've got to make sure it's managed equitably ... and one of the ways of doing it is rationing."

"The decision (on rationing) has not been made," Morton added.

"It's an open decision and I think tomorrow, Friday, we are going to discuss this very point in the administration as to whether we are going to move towards it or whether we're going to stay there," he said.

Nixon scheduled meeting with his Cabinet-level Energy Emergency Action Group usually signals the group's readiness to recommend a course of action.

After the group met last Tuesday, an informed source told a reporter its members seemed to be reaching the conclusion that a high gasoline tax could not be passed or applied fast enough to solve the fuel shortage.

The group was described as "leaning toward rationing" and this source said even Shultz was wavering on the tax idea.

There were reports, however, that a combination might be tried combining gasoline rationing and permitting motorists to purchase additional fuel subject to a high tax.

However, Nixon is known to view rationing as a last resort. On Nov. 7 he said the American people would resent peacetime rationing "very, very much" and that he personally disliked it because of the power it gave to the officials who administer it.

Herbert Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said Thursday that no decision has been made either way.

Contingency plans are being drafted for rationing, the White House has confirmed. Stein, reporting to newsmen on a high-level assessment of the fuel shortage's economic impact, predicted it will push the nation's economy down to near-recession levels next year.

Unemployment, now standing at 4.5 per cent, will rise to close to 6 per cent, he said. That would mean that more than a million workers would lose jobs.

Stein said Americans can expect sharply higher fuel prices. He said the government should maintain price controls on petroleum because oil companies would otherwise reap windfall profits.

He said the worst impact would come in the first six months of next year and said the output of the economy could decline from January through March.

In other developments:

—Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., criticized continuing U.S. oil shipments to South Vietnam, Cambodia and Thailand during the domestic shortage. The Pentagon said the amounts of oil have been reduced but the policy of providing fuel to the three nations remains unchanged.

—The Arab oil-producing countries promised to relax the energy squeeze on Britain, France, Spain and those African nations that broke relations with Israel. The Arabs have cut off all oil for the United States.

—Chrysler Corp. said it will close seven auto assembly plants for varying periods in January. Chrysler said the move was to change over to increased small-car production.

Budget requests are cut

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Christopher S. Bond and his budget director, Mark Edelman, said today they have cut budget requests from state agencies by $103 million because of a tight fiscal condition in the state.

"The state's general revenue, which comes primarily from sales and income taxes, is simply not keeping up with the rapidly increasing spending demands for state services," Bond said.

If the legislature passes any new expensive programs, the governor said, "it could bring us close to a tax increase." The governor said total income for the current fiscal year will be $20 million less than the spending because of costly new programs approved by the legislature and increasing costs of food and fuel.

The estimated general revenue for the current fiscal year is $937 million, compared with $875 million for the year ending last June 30.

While spending will exceed income by $20 million, the state isn't running out of money because of a general fund surplus existing for several years. The surplus should be $60 million at the end of the fiscal year next June 30, Edelman said.

However, Edelman said, spending in the fiscal year starting next July 1 is expected to exceed revenue by $18 million. Edelman said it was too early to compare the state's projected budget with the $2 billion budget for this fiscal year.

Bond will ask the legislature in January to approve a $15 million emergency appropriation, which would allow the money to be spent immediately.

This would fund the $5 per person increase in aid to dependent children to about 300,000 persons, increase in legislators' per diem expenses from $10 to $25 per day, a new bill boosting the Education Department's special education program, tax relief for the elderly (expected to cost $18 million a year) and increases in starting pay for prison guards from $448 a month to $494.

Edelman said he would recommend appropriations for the 1974-75 fiscal year of $1,019,000,000 from state sources. The appropriations totaled $942 million in the 1973-74 fiscal year.

U.S. seeks to resume peace talks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The senior U.N. commander in the Middle East conferred with Egypt's war minister today over the suspension of cease-fire talks, then flew to Jerusalem to meet with Israeli officials.

The flurry of activity by Lt. Gen. Ensis Silasvuo was meant to bring Israeli Maj. Gen. Aharon Yariv and Egyptian Maj. Gen. Mohamed elGamasy back to their desert negotiating table after their talks broke off Thursday.

Israeli newspapers reported that Israeli and Egyptian forces on the Suez Canal front were on maximum alert. The paper Yediot Aharonot said Egypt had resupplied its forces with Soviet arms since the war "and they need nothing more than an order to renew the firing."

A U.N. spokesman said "some incidents" had been reported since the talks were broken off, but he repeated an earlier assertion that the "cease-fire is holding." No details of the incidents were available.

The spokesman said Silasvuo met with Egyptian War Minister Ahmed Ismail in Cairo for nearly an hour at Silasvuo's request. He declined further comment, but other sources said the meeting was held apparently at the instruction of U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim.

"I think we should not lose the momentum," Waldheim said in New York Thursday. "I think we should do all we can to maintain the momentum and get a settlement."

Yariv said he thought the talks would continue, but Premier Golda Meir declared she was by no means certain that the cease-fire would endure until full peace negotiations begin.

U.S. officials in Washington said they expect the Arab-Israeli peace conference to open in Geneva in mid-December even if the impasse is not resolved.

Israel's military command reported that another Israeli soldier had been killed and three wounded in sporadic cease-fire violations, occurring almost daily on the southern front. The Israeli killed Thursday was the fifth reported Israeli fatality since the Oct. 24 U.N. cease-fire.

An Egyptian spokesman said Gamasy broke off the talks Thursday because Israel was evading implementation of the provision in the Kissinger cease-fire agreement calling for negotiation of a withdrawal to the positions along the canal held on Oct. 22, the date of the first U.N. cease-fire.

Israel claims the positions then were too fluid for determination, and the negotiators have been discussing a general disengagement of troops.

Higher heating oil bills are predicted

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Experts say it probably will cost more to heat a home with oil this winter, even with the thermostat turned down. Higher oil costs are to blame.

In some areas of the country, heating oil costs have risen more than 25 per cent since last year.

President Nixon has told homeowners they must reduce temperatures by six degrees to conserve energy. But industry spokesmen say the fuel savings won't offset the higher prices, caused by increased costs, particularly for foreign crude oil.

Heating oil prices have risen monthly this fall across the nation. U.S. Government price control regulations permit a monthly increase in the retail price to offset increased costs.

A spokesman for the Massachusetts Division of Standards said heating oil prices in his state last week ranged from 24.3 to 34.8 cents a gallon — about a 10-cent a-gallon increase over last year.

An industry spokesman said that it took about 1,800 gallons of oil to provide heat and hot water for the average home in Massachusetts last year. He said oil consumption is reduced by three per cent for every one-degree temperature cutback over 70 degrees and by 1½ per cent for every degree cutback below 70 degrees.

Michigan residents already are paying almost 25 per cent more for a gallon of oil this year than they did last year. A spokesman for the Oil Heat Information Council said prices in the Grand Rapids area, for example, averaged 16.9 cents per gallon last year and 21 cents a gallon this year.

A spokesman for the Oil Heat Institute in the state of Washington said that prices averaged 22.9 cents a gallon last year and now were 25.9 or 26.9 cents a gallon.

Mark Barker of the Oil Fuel Institute of Florida said there's "no question" costs will be higher this year in his state. Heating oil currently is running from 26.9 to 28.9 cents a gallon compared with about 21.9 cents last year, Barker said.

Florida homeowners won't feel the pinch as much as their neighbors in the north. Barker said the average home in central Florida required only about 250 gallons of oil last winter.

A spokesman for the Chicago-based Oil Heat Marketers Association said the average home in his area required about 1,300 gallons of oil last winter. He said the average cost per gallon was 19 cents, for a heating bill of $247.

City ordinance places limits on gas storage

Sedalians hoarding gasoline in the face of a nationwide fuel cutback are violating a city ordinance if they store more than 25 gallons of gas in their homes or garages, Fire Chief Willas Jabas said Friday.

"This could possibly be one of the greatest dangers created by the energy crisis," Jabas said. "More and more people will be tempted to store gasoline in their cellars and garages. The dangers here are obvious, but a lot of people probably wouldn't let that stop them."

The existence of a large supply of stored gasoline could be disastrous in the event of a house or garage fire, Jabas explained. "Our men may be fighting a routine house fire, but when those gasoline cans are ignited, the fire wouldn't be so routine any more."

In addition to limiting the quantity of gasoline that may be stored at homes and garages, the city fire code, adopted in January, specifies that all fuel be stored in approved containers.

"That means no glass jars or jugs," Jabas said. "Also," he added, "people should remember to always keep the lids on their gasoline cans tightly fastened. If not, fumes escape which can be ignited even by the switch of an electric light."

This hazard, Jabas indicated, will probably be compounded even further this winter by the anticipated proliferation of wood-burning stoves and increased use of fireplaces. However, he added, even a pilot light can ignite the fumes if enough are in the air.

In apartment buildings with three or more separate living quarters, all hotels and motels, and at other business locations, persons may store more than 25 gallons, but the fuel must be placed in a separate room in approved containers, Jabas said. Limits to the amount of fuel that may be stored by these firms are set at his discretion, Jabas said.

Another provision of the city fire code, Jabas noted, authorizes him to later recommend changes in these storage regulations. The final decision on whether to raise or lower the limit of gas that may be stored must be made by the City Council, he explained.

"I am certainly not going to increase the amount that may be stored," Jabas said, "and I'm not going to immediately order a reduction in the amount of fuel that may be stored. However, that's certainly not to say I may not in the future."

Jabas indicated he will probably keep a close watch on the situation and request a lowering of the number of gallons of gas that may be privately stored, "if the situation gets out of hand."

Although Jabas said the fire department will not take the initiative in conducting inspections for possible violations of these rules, he said the department will thoroughly investigate all complaints it receives.

Another fire and explosion hazard, Jabas said, is the practice of storing gasoline in car trunks. Although no city statute specifically forbids this, Jabas warned that all persons doing so "are running quite a risk. The full gasoline tanks in the trunk could have a bomb-like effect if the car was involved in an accident."

Fuel is not worry for airport manager

Sedalia airport manager Jim Abbas said Friday he wasn't "worried too much at the present" about President Nixon's requested 50 per cent cut in fuel supplies for personal air transportation and flight instruction.

"There's really no way he will be able to control this rationing," Abbas said. "Air traffic is just too versatile and mobile to control."

If rationing was implemented, Abbas said, the brunt of controlling the program would fall on "me and others like me. . . and that wouldn't be any good either, I believe."

Venturing a personal opinion, Abbas, who ordered 2,200 gallons of flight fuel Thursday, said he believed "this whole thing (the energy crisis) is the administration's way of whitewashing Waterg. . . I talked to several executives I know in Standard Oil refineries and they told me they had more fuel than they knew what to do with. We'll see a lot more fuel when the dealers get the price up high enough."

It was reported that 2,200 gallons of fuel could last about a month, depending on how heavy traffic is at the airport.

What if his 2,200-gallon fuel order is significantly reduced?

"There won't be much I can do about that," Abbas said. "I don't think it's right, but then my thoughts don't count for much in Washington."

Abbas said he "would just have to wait and see" if proposed fuel cutbacks visibly reduces local air traffic. "That's something we won't know for sure unless it happens," he said.

Gasless Sundays may help churches

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Gasless Sundays aren't expected to hurt those spiritual refueling stations, the churches. In fact, some religious leaders say it could boost attendance by keeping people on the hometown scene.

"It might be a blessing in disguise," said the Rev. Dr. W. Sterling Carey, president of the National Council of Churches, noting that the ban on Sunday gasoline sales could replace weekend trips with church-going.

"People may find again their local church, get to know their neighbors and have time to search again for the values which once made this nation one of hope and trust," he added.

However, the Rev. Dean M. Kelley, an inter-church specialist on relations with government, suggested people may simply apply an old biblical tip of Moses and obtain their travel fuel a day early.

"Presumably like the ancient children of Israel, they'll stock up on manna the day before," he says, recalling how "manna" fell in the wilderness each day except the sabbath, for which it was gathered the previous day.

In any case, the Sunday closing of filling stations isn't regarded as a hindrance to getting to worship services, even though participants largely get there by car these days.

"It obviously won't inhibit going to church, and it may help because people won't be so likely to be driving out of town," said Frank White, director of the interdenominational corporation information center.

The nation's major churches for several years have been urging a simpler life style to moderate consumption of dwindling natural resources. Many local churches across the country also are taking steps to cut their own uses of energy.

Maryland's Episcopal bishop David Leighton, of Baltimore, asked congregations to keep thermostats down to a minimum and recommended holding meetings in smaller quarters requiring less heat. He also suggested inter-faith sharing of facilities.

A check of Houston, Tex., churches by Louis Moore, religion editor of the Houston Chronicle, showed that many churches have decided to lower thermostats to 68 degrees and keep unnecessary lights off.

The Rev. Robert Ball, of Houston's Memorial Drive Presbyterian Church, says it already had a policy of encouraging members to use car pools because of limited parking facilities.

The Rev. Dr. Charles Allen, of Houston's downtown First Methodist Church, said there is a possibility of scheduling Friday noon services for members who work downtown but live in the suburbs.

Many Catholic churches hold services on Saturday for people that can't make it on Sunday.

Msgr. John Lenihan, of Christ the King Roman Catholic Church in Jacksonville, Fla., said that parish may schedule all Masses on Saturday in case the energy pinch banned Sunday driving.

However, President Nixon, in his initial energy-conservation message, said there will be no ban on Sunday driving, such as has been imposed in some European countries.

British officials criticize Kissinger

LONDON (AP) — Offended British officials are meeting Henry A. Kissinger's criticism of European behavior during the October Arab-Israeli war with biting attacks on his style of diplomacy.

Nothing is being said publicly beyond the laconic remark of a Foreign Office spokesman. "We prefer to look forward, not backward."

But in the privacy of their offices, government men are letting loose a cascade of complaints against the secretary of state almost unprecedented since World War II.

Kissinger infuriated the British when he said at a news conference on Nov. 22 that those European allies who had been consulted most about U.S. policy in the Middle East turned out to be the least cooperative. The British were not named, but they felt they were being attacked by implication.

British officials feel that Kissinger is most skillful in negotiating with adversaries like the Russians and Chinese. They feel he needs reminding that the European allies are not yet a monolithic group with a single identity and a unified foreign policy. They consider his call for a "new Atlantic Charter" that would somehow embrace Japan and his talk of 1973 as the "Year of Europe" in American foreign policy ill conceived, gimmicky and premature.

After the October war started, Kissinger's failure to consult the European allies before certain major American moves led them to suspect that he was trying to exclude them from a region which they consider more important to them than to the Americans.

Britain, France and some other European states consider U.S. backing for Israel a mistaken policy. They feel it imperils Western Europe's oil supplies, lets Russia pose as the champion of the Arab cause and failed to persuade the Israelis to withdraw from the Arab lands they occupied in the 1967 war. This latter, in the British view, is the flashpoint that started the October war.

In listing their grievances, British officials take pains to stress that none are fundamental. All can be resolved with improved communications and better crisis management methods, they say. Kissinger's attendance at next month's meeting of the North Atlantic council of foreign ministers and his subsequent trip to London will be one occasion for discussing this.

Auto crash fatal for young girl

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP) — Sixteen-month-old Amy Clifton was dead on arrival Thursday at Southeast Missouri Hospital after the car in which she was riding collided with another at an intersection.

Clifton was hospitalized for treatment of injuries and his son Timothy, 3, treated and released. Richard Nation, 34, of Chaffee, driver of the other car, was not injured.

"Christ Seen Beforehand" will be the sermon topic of the Rev. Dr. Roger Williams at the Sunday morning service at Broadway Presbyterian Church. The scripture is Malachi 3:1-5 and 3:13 to 4:6.

The Rev. Robert Magee will speak on "The Greatest Book in the World" at the 10:10 a.m. Sunday service at First Christian Church, 200 South Limit. The service will be broadcast at 11:30 a.m. Sunday by KDRO radio.

The church will celebrate the "hanging of the green" at a special service at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

Few things in life worry a Volkswagen.

Gas shortage worry a Volkswagen? Not while the VW Beetle gets about 25<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub> miles per gallon. In fact, if every car used as little gas as a VW, there wouldn't be any threat of a gas shortage to begin with.

Deaths of two inmates are reported

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP) — One prisoner was doused with flammable liquid and burned fatally and another hanged himself at the U.S. Penitentiary in the last two weeks.

Michael Quinlan, assistant warden, said Thursday that Roy Drake, 50, of Tulsa, Okla., was set on fire in his cell Nov. 12 and died six days later in a hospital.

Joseph Louis Martin, 33, of Boston, hanged himself with towels in a protective custody area last Sunday.

Both men were in the security cellblock for prisoners who have asked for special protection.

Quinlan said Drake had a reputation as a prison informer and his killer was hired for the job. The killer has been identified but no formal charge has been filed yet, Quinlan said.

Drake was sentenced in 1956 to serve 30 years for a bank robbery in which a hostage was taken.

'Largest ever' Christmas parade set

The largest annual Sedalia Chamber of Commerce Christmas parade ever will get under way at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Ninety-eight units, including marching bands, color guards, floats, saddle clubs, vintage automobiles and a four-mule hitch and wagon, will be featured in the parade, which traditionally signals the beginning of the local Christmas season.

Parade chairman Ed Kehde Jr., said marching band units from Kemper and Wentworth Military Academies will be included this year.

The parade will start on west Main, and proceed east to Ohio, south on Ohio to Seventh, west on Seventh to Osage, north on Osage to Third and then end by going west on Third.

"I'm really excited about the parade, because it will be the biggest one we have ever had," Kehde said. "I think it will create a lot of good will and enthusiasm among citizens and shoppers."

Cars will not be allowed to park on Ohio, from Main to Broadway, immediately before and during the parade, Police Chief William Miller said. Miller also encouraged parents to closely supervise their children during the parade.

Agree to amend city's vending machine law

The city's new vending machine ordinance will be amended to eliminate what some local businessmen see as a double taxation provision, it was decided at a special City Council meeting Thursday night.

City Counselor Bib Fritz was expected to report back to the council on Monday with a recommended amendment to the present ordinance that would change the method of figuring taxes on vending machines.

Under the present system vending machines are taxed on varying amounts depending upon what they dispense. This has caused objections from some businessmen who claim they are being taxed twice — once as a business and again for operating vending machines to carry on their business.

The thinking Thursday night was that vending machine companies as such should pay a merchants license tax based on the number of machines operated, rather than be taxed for each machine individually. Other businesses that earned profits from vending machines on their property would include these receipts in figuring their basic business license tax.

Businesses that use vending machines to sell their product would not be required to pay an additional tax for each machine in addition to the basic business license.

Opinions on the vending machine ordinance were exchanged between members of the City Council, Mayor Jerry Jones, Fritz, License Inspector Bob Brown and several businessmen present.

Mayor Jones indicated that license fees collected so far under the present vending machine ordinance, estimated to total $2,000 by Brown, would be refunded once the ordinance is changed.

Kansas City woman enters guilty plea

Miss Anita Olga Tillman, 23, Kansas City, pleaded guilty to two stealing charges Thursday in Pettis County Magistrate Court. One of the charges was a misdemeanor, appealed to Circuit Court from Magistrate Court. The other was a felony.

The felony charge alleges that Miss Tillman stole clothing valued at more than $50 from Connor-Wagoner women's clothing store, 414 South Ohio, on Oct. 13. The misdemeanor charge alleges that she stole clothing valued at less than $50 from Montgomery Ward Co., 400 South Osage.

Circuit Court Judge Frank Meyer delayed sentencing on both charges until Jan. 7 pending an investigation by the State Department of Probation and Parole.

Miss Tillman and James Michael Bell, 24, Kansas City, were sentenced to a year in the county jail Nov. 8 after they were found guilty in Magistrate Court on the misdemeanor stealing charge. Both appealed their cases to Circuit Court on Nov. 20.

No date has been set for Bell's trial.

Miss Tillman remains in the Pettis County jail in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Block on spending compromise promised

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., told the Senate today he intends to talk until midnight if necessary to block congressional action on a compromise plan for public financing of presidential campaigns.

Allen termed the proposal a "raid on the federal treasury for the politicians of this country" that should not be allowed to "ride piggyback" on a bill to increase the national debt limit.

If he held to his threatened filibuster, it would run until the time when the temporary ceiling on the public debt would expire. Allen promptly gained help from Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., who joined in the talking.

Democratic congressional leaders were pushing for passage of the campaign

Trailer park re-zoning postponed

The Sedalia Planning and Zoning Commission Thursday voted to continue until Jan. 3 a petition presented by Attorney James Buckley on behalf of Conrad Development, Inc., owner of Heritage Village Mobile Home Park. The petition was continued to allow the firm time for more research.

The company is requesting that the northwest corner of 16th and Thompson Boulevard be rezoned from R-1 (residential) to C-2 (general business). The area in consideration is a 7.4-acre tract acquired by the company in March.

The rezoning request is part of an agreement between Conrad Development and the city in which the practice of selling mobile homes in the residentially zoned park will apparently be allowed to continue provided that the firm seek proper rezoning as soon as possible.

Lawrence Koeller, commission chairman, noted that one difficulty with rezoning the area to C-2 is that this could potentially allow a firm to erect buildings to the street line, similar to the downtown area.

The commission invited any interested parties to attend the Jan. 3 hearing on this request.

In other business the commission unanimously granted a petition presented by C. D. Hieronymus to rezone land on the northwest corner of State Fair Boulevard and 16th from R-1 (residential single unit) to R-3 (apartment district.) The commission will recommend that the City Council approve this rezoning at their next meeting.

Hieronymus told the commission that he plans to use the land for a set of condominiums. He said the approximately 200 by 400 foot tract of land would accommodate 20 units.

Hieronymus also told the commission that the condominiums would "possibly" be multi-story but no more than three stories. The units would range in cost from middle to upper income and parking would be underground, except for visitor parking, he added.

Jaycees accepting nominations now

The Sedalia Jaycees are now accepting nominations for their Outstanding Young Man, Outstanding Young Woman, Outstanding Young Farmer and Outstanding Young Educator awards.

The recognition is given annually for persons under the age of 36 who have distinguished themselves in community service. This year's award will be presented at the Distinguished Service Awards Banquet Jan. 10. Civic clubs, church organizations or individuals may make nominations.

It was emphasized that nominations must be made before Dec. 14 to Keith Rowland, 826-2792; Gary Fleming, 827-3700; Roger Hopkins, 827-0514; and Gary Evert, 826-0263.

Man turns himself in on drug charge

A former Sedalia resident was arrested by Pettis County sheriff's officers Friday morning on a charge of selling marijuana.

Pettis County Sheriff Emmett Fairfax said Marion Schlobohm, 21, voluntarily turned himself in to sheriff's officers at the county jail. Schlobohm, who had lived on Route 4, was working as a carpenter in Las Vegas, Nev., Fairfax said.

Schlobohm remains in the county jail in lieu of $5,000 bond. He is scheduled to appear in Magistrate Court Dec. 10 for a preliminary hearing.

Schlobohm is one of nine persons who are charged with selling drugs earlier this year to an undercover agent for the Sedalia police department. Five of the nine persons have been arrested.

'Messiah' rehearsal to begin Sunday

Rehearsal is under way for the annual presentation of "The Messiah" to be held on Sunday, Dec. 16, at the First Christian Church under the direction of Mrs. Geraldine Schrader.

Rehearsal will be held Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. at State Fair Community College.

Anyone interested in participating in the program is invited to attend.

financing plan despite threats that President Nixon would veto it.

The campaign financing provision, tacked on to a bill to increase the national debt limit, would cover both general and primary presidential campaigns.

The Senate had voted for public financing of congressional campaigns as well. But that provision was dropped in negotiations between House and Senate leaders after the House refused to approve the Senate-passed version.

The current debt limit expires at midnight EST.

But Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said the nation could survive for a week or so without a new debt limit. Meantime, Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said he would urge President Nixon not to veto the bill.

Democratic sources said the compromise would ban private contributions to presidential candidates if enough public money to finance the campaigns were available.

If there were not enough public funds available, the sources said, the bill would provide for partial public financing and would limit individual contributions to $3,000.

In order to be eligible for matching public funds, in elections where there was partial public funding, a presidential primary candidate would first have to raise at least $100,000 in contributions of no more than $100 apiece.

No candidate could receive total matching payments exceeding five cents per eligible voter—or roughly $7 million. Furthermore, no such candidate could spend more than a total $15 million for the nomination.

In general elections, a major party presidential nominee could not spend more than 15 cents for each eligible voter — or about $21 million.

Proposed auto price hikes are suspended

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cost of Living Council today suspended temporarily proposed new price increases on 1974 model automobiles.

The council said in a statement that it needs more time to review price proposals, which were considered at a public hearing last week.

Council director John T. Dunlop indicated the council expected to have a decision on the increases by Dec. 10 at the latest.

The increases could have gone into effect for American Motors today if the council had not acted to temporarily suspend them.

Under the council's Phase 4 anti-inflation regulations, the automakers automatically could put their proposed increases into effect within 30 days unless the council acted to suspend, modify or reject them within that time.

American Motors has proposed increasing prices an average $114 per model.

Other proposed increases were: —Chrysler Corp., an average $136 per model, which could have been effective Saturday.

—Ford, an average $188 per model, which also could have been effective Saturday.

—General Motors, an average $208 per model, which could have been effective Dec. 7.

The council held hearings on the proposed increases because of concern over their potential impact on the economy.

It has estimated that over-all price increases of about 5.1 per cent would cost car buyers an additional $2.3 billion.

The auto makers, which were granted one 1974 model year increase in September, argued they needed the new price hike to reimburse them for increased production costs.

Despite near-record profits for the 1973 model year, the auto makers say their overall return on investment has been inadequate and their problems will be further aggravated by a possible 10-per cent decline in auto sales in the new model year.

Argentine leader returns to work

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — President Juan D. Peron returned to work today after a sudden illness.

He addressed the nation for 26 minutes after signing a new social security law.

The 78-year-old president spoke firmly and clearly but he appeared tired and wan, and his voice sounded huskier than usual.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Egil Krogh Jr., who supervised the White House special investigation unit known as the plumbers, pleaded guilty in federal court today to violating the civil rights of a Los Angeles psychiatrist in connection with the Ellsberg burglary.

The federal conspiracy charge carries a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

In an agreement worked out with the special Watergate prosecutor, the 34-year-old lawyer will not face further federal charges in connection with the plumbers' operation to break into the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, Dr. Lewis Fielding.

Cason says CMSU conflict over definition

HOLDEN, Mo. (AP) — The president pro tem of the Missouri Senate says the controversy over extra budget money which was appropriated to Central Missouri State University boils down mostly to a definition of terms.

"Some people for personal, private or political reasons of their own have thrown it all out of proportion," said Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton.

Cason made his statement in an interview after an address Thursday night to the Johnson County Soil and Water Conservation District.

Missouri's state auditor released a report this week which indicated the school at Warrensburg got as much as $5 million in extra money by padding its enrollment figures for two years.

Cason said the pivotal question is whether participants in continuing education courses and training classes shall be counted as regular students.

The senator said at least in one of the years involved the present governor was state auditor.

"There was nothing sinister done by Central Missouri State," Cason said. "It was all during the regular course of business which could have been stopped on any given day by the state auditor if he felt something was being done improperly."

Cason supported the position of Dr. Warren Lovinger, president of Central Missouri State, who contends the state-supported colleges were directed originally to include continuing education trainees as part of their regular enrollment.

Cason said that decision apparently was changed, with some schools being notified and others not.

Earth tremors shake four Southern states

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Brief earth tremors hit portions of four Southern states early today, frightening hundreds of persons. There were no reports of injuries or major damage.

The National Weather Service in Atlanta said tremors were reported in Tennessee, South Carolina, North Carolina and Georgia. Officials said they struck at 2:48 a.m. and lasted about 15 seconds.

Dishes rattled and sleeping residents were awakened by the tremors. Dozens of persons called sheriff's departments and state police to report the phenomenon.

In North Carolina, sheriff's departments reported the tremor was felt in Buncombe, Haywood and Henderson counties. In South Carolina, reports came from Spartanburg, Greenville and Pickens counties.

Federal Aviation Administration officials said they believed the tremor was centered halfway between Maryville and Johnson City in Tennessee.

Tennessee Highway Patrol trooper Dean Norman said the highway patrol's Knoxville office had been swamped with calls about the tremor. He said people had called from practically every county in Upper East Tennessee.

Bodies of family are found

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — The skeleton of an elderly woman was found in a locked-up house today, and police said it appeared as if her body had been placed in the living room by a brother and sister who wanted her to "remain part of the family."

Their bodies were found upstairs in the bed where they died of natural causes, officials said.

Police said the skeleton of Cecilia Kenney, 84, was discovered on a downstairs couch facing a television set. They said she may have been dead as long as a year.

Upstairs, police found the bodies of her 76-year-old sister, Grace, lying on a bed next to the brother, Roland, 72. They were thought to have died within the last month, according to officials.

Det. Sgt. Bruce Russell said in his report, "It appears that Cecilia died of natural causes and the other two dressed her and laid her on the couch so that she could still remain part of the family."

"Grace and Roland continued living a normal life. Roland died around a month ago, and was asleep in his bed at the time. Grace left him there, and tried to continue her life, but found she could not. "She lay in the same bed as Roland and died a few days or weeks later."

Medical examiner Thomas Mathews said there was no evidence of foul play.

The family was reclusive and shunned contacts with neighbors, authorities said.

The discovery was made after neighbors called the post office to report mail had been piling up in front of the house for three weeks. Post office officials notified police, who entered the house through a window and discovered the three bodies, along with the bodies of two pets.

Fatality accident figures released

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Drinking is not a major factor in interstate highway accidents, the Missouri Highway Patrol has concluded after a study of 8,120 accidents in 1972.

The study also showed, the patrol reported today:

—Most of the accidents involved persons younger than 25.

—Drivers in accidents who were at least 65 were more often involved in fatal accidents than any other age group.

—Fatal accidents occurred with greatest frequency on Saturdays in both urban and rural areas.

—More than half the fatal accidents occurred after dark and were single vehicle accidents.

—A greater percentage of truck crashes and motorcycle accidents resulted in fatalities than did passenger car accidents.

Butz blames price ceilings for meat consumption decrease

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz Thursday predicted substantial increases of red meat if the U.S. economy will "put more money on the line" in the form of higher beef prices to stimulate production.

In prepared remarks, Butz blasted "the emotionalism connected with some of these environmental matters" that tie producers' hands and listed more than a half-dozen difficult hurdles to increased domestic meat production.

The speech, before the Kansas Livestock Association convention, at many points flew in the face of recent statistics and analyses released by Butz' departmental livestock experts.

And, while noting a "constantly increasing worldwide demand for meat," it did not mention the current moves of Butz' top international-trade assistants toward increasing the livestock herds of other nations, particularly the Soviet Union, as potential markets for more U.S. grain.

Butz blamed "the disastrous price ceilings" this year for "the slight reduction in per capita consumption of all red meats for 1973" because of reduced supplies this summer and fewer marketings now. Per capita consumption this year is 178 pounds, he said.

USDA's Outlook and Situation Board, which recently shifted from its posture of concluding that consumer resistance to high prices is responsible for less consumption, said in a report Tuesday that per capita consumption is now 177 pounds, more than six per cent below last year's level and the lowest in six years.

It blamed reduced production and said the 1974 outlook is for an over-all increase as beef intake rises and pork stays the same.

Butz listed these hurdles to increasing domestic meat production: too many calves are needed for beef to slaughter them at 200 pounds for veal, the dairy-cow supply is at "an almost irreducible minimum if we are going to maintain our milk supply" and cannot become a further source of slaughter, cattle herds are "at their practical limit" in the West because of limited water supplies, grains are outbidding livestock for grazing land in the Midwest, herds cannot easily be further expanded in the South and forage is in short supply in the Northeast.

"These prospects ... mean that added beef production will be difficult," Butz said. "Such production will cost more — and it will come forth only if satisfactory prices provide the incentive."

"But those price increases must be more than pennies, and they must appear to be lasting, with enough certainty to merit expansion of beef herds which may take at least two years — and perhaps five years — to yield significant increases in beef production."

USDA's Economic Research Service Tuesday reported the first decline in retail beef prices in 13 months occurred in October.

"Demand is there. Our people want red meat. I think they know they will have to pay for it. The job now is to produce it," Butz said.

He said later that "consumption may spurt even more than we now project," although the outlook board said that an economy slowed-down by the "energy crisis" is likely to dampen demand.

He said research is needed to find ways to produce more prolific sows, cows and ewes and that "we must help the nation come to its senses on environmental constraints."

For example, he said, "people must decide whether they prefer the howl of the coyote to an economically priced sirloin or lamb chop."

A Kansas agricultural official recently told a House committee of his state's predator-control program, which has found that poor farm management rather than predators is the major cause of livestock losses and that coyotes can be effectively controlled by environmentally safe means.

Butz said the general public must decide whether it wants more and better meat and "let objective science take dominance" or wants to maintain bans or other restrictions on the use of DES and antibiotics and on waste disposal in the livestock business.

Parole granted for Irving

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Parole Board has granted a parole beginning next Feb. 14 to Clifford Irving, the writer convicted of conspiring to defraud a publisher with a fake biography of Howard Hughes.

When released, Irving will have served nearly 18 months of a 2½-year sentence.

In granting the 42-year-old author a parole, the board reversed its decision of last August denying immediate parole and scheduling no further review of the case until January.

Irving is confined at the federal correctional institution at Danbury, Conn., where he was transferred last March from the Allenwood, Pa., federal prison camp.

He was sentenced in June 1972 in New York after being convicted of conspiring to defraud the McGraw Hill Publishing Co. Irving began serving his sentence that August.

After plans for his purported biography became known, billionaire-recluse Hughes publicly renounced it as a hoax in a rare telephone conversation with a group of reporters.

Diabetes test clinic is set for Sedalia

The Sedalia-Pettis County branch of the Central Missouri Diabetes Association will hold its second annual free diabetic detection clinic at the National Guard Armory, Ninth and Ohio, beginning at 6 a.m. Dec. 8.

Anyone over 18 years of age who has a history of diabetes in the family or who has the symptoms of diabetes, plus anyone over the age of 40 who is overweight, may take the test, which consists of a blood sample taken from the finger.

Before the test can be taken, those to be tested must have followed a prescribed high calorie diet for three days. Persons who wish the test may drink nothing other than water after midnight Dec. 7. The diet itself may be obtained from the Diabetes Association or from the Pettis County Health Nurse's office. Those wishing the test must make an appointment with the Health Nurse at the courthouse.

Last year 67 persons were tested for diabetes here.

Oil industries profit from the energy crisis

WASHINGTON — The Nixon administration has been strangely unresponsive to one critical question about the energy crisis: what does it plan to do to ensure that the huge oil companies do not profiteer while other industries suffer and the people as a whole make grim sacrifices?

Rowan

You pick up a copy of the AFL-CIO News and spot a headline saying: "Oil Companies Lead 9-Month Profit Surge."

The data in that article, compiled by Nat Goldfinger, who heads the union's department of research, is bound to raise the hackles of the average working man and woman.

First, says Goldfinger, the Commerce Department reports that in the first nine months of 1973 profits for all corporations were 30 per cent higher than for the first nine months of 1972. These are AFTER-TAX profits, and they come on top of a 21 per cent profits jump in 1971 and a 16 per cent profits increase in 1972.

And which corporations were out in front in piling up new profits the first nine months of this year? The big oil companies.

Goldfinger points out that Exxon's profits were up 59.4 per cent; Mobil profits went up 38.4 per cent; Texaco showed a 34.8 per cent boost; Standard Oil of Ohio, up 92.6 per cent; Standard Oil of California, a 39.7 per cent hike.

These huge increases in profits are reported after a six-month period when the average Joe has seen fuel oil and coal prices soar at an annual rate of 22.7 per cent. He has seen cereal and bakery prices go up at an annual rate of 34.8 per cent, dairy products at a rate of 27.1 per cent.

The people want and deserve answers as to whether the oil companies will continue to enjoy their colossal tax loopholes (and perhaps even get some new ones on the grounds that they need "incentive" to discover and produce new oil and wind up with staggering new profits while other industries cut back and millions of Americans go jobless.

We know what Mr. Nixon's inclinations are. He already has called for the deregulation of natural gas prices to stimulate production and exploration. He said he favored some protection for the consumer, but — "You have got wells in Louisiana and other places that are shut down and many that are not being explored because the price is held at a price too low to make the explorer a profit. Therefore, he isn't going to do it."

The President's attitude is crucial here. Sen. Mark Hatfield, the Oregon Republican, explained that he voted against the National Emergency Energy Act because it conferred such sweeping new powers on the President at a time when Congress is trying to take back some authority. "I cannot think of a single sector of our economic life that will not be under the direct control of the President or his agents," Hatfield complained.

Well, that leaves no doubt as to where responsibility lies. It is the White House that must tell us what happens to the excess profits when gasoline goes to $1 a gallon or the price of heating oil and natural gas goes through the ceiling. Do the explorers and developers, the big oil companies, haul in new piles of moola, or does that money go to ease the miseries of retired people on fixed incomes, families living on jobless pay because the energy crisis has wiped out their jobs? Does government use the huge new gasoline tax some are talking about to assist industries that are in extraordinary distress because of fuel allocation policies?

If there is to be any sense of national unity in the troubled months ahead, the country had better get some answers to those questions — and soon.

Friendly voice in Canada

By DOUG KNEIBERT

Here's a column that has been getting a lot of exposure in this country. It was written by Gordon Sinclair, a Canadian radio and TV commentator, and was sent to me by Mrs. Ruby Appell, 223 East Sixth.

Mr. Sinclair:

This Canadian thinks it is time to speak up for the Americans as the most generous and possibly the least appreciated people on all the earth.

Germany, Japan and to a lesser extent Britain and Italy were lifted out of the debris of war by the Americans who poured in billions of dollars and forgave other billions in debts. None of these countries is today paying even the interest on its remaining debts to the United States.

When the franc was in danger of collapsing in 1956, it was the Americans who propped it up, and their reward was to be insulted and swindled on the streets of Paris.

I was there. I saw it.

When distant cities are hit by earthquakes, it is the United States that hurries in to help. ... This spring, 59 American communities (were) flattened by tornadoes. Nobody helped.

The Marshall Plan and the Truman Policy pumped billions upon billions of dollars into discouraged countries. Now newspapers in those countries are writing about the decadent, war-mongering Americans.

I'd like to see just one of those countries that is gloating over the erosion of the United States dollar build its own airplanes.

Come on, let's hear it!

Does any other country in the world have a plane to equal the Boeing Jumbo Jet, the Lockheed Tristar or the Douglas, 10?

If so, why don't they fly them? Why do all the international lines except Russia fly American planes?

Why does no other land on earth even consider putting a man or woman on the moon?

You talk about Japanese technocracy, and you get radios. You talk about German technocracy, and you get automobiles.

You talk about American technocracy, and you find men on the moon — not once, but several times — and safely home again.

You talk about scandals and the Americans put theirs right in the store window for everybody to look at.

Even their draft-dodgers are not pursued and hounded. They are here on our streets, and most of them — unless they are breaking Canadian laws — are getting American dollars from Ma and Pa at home, to spend here.

When the railways of France, Germany and India were breaking down through age, it was the Americans who rebuilt them. When the Pennsylvania Railroad and the New York Central went broke, nobody loaned them an old caboose. Both are still broke.

I can name you 5,000 times when the Americans raced to the help of other people in trouble. Can you name me even one time when someone else raced to the Americans in trouble?

I don't think there was outside help even during the San Francisco earthquake.

Our neighbors have faced it alone, and I'm one Canadian who is damned tired of hearing them kicked around.

They will come out of this thing with their flag high. And when they do, they are entitled to thumb their nose at the lands that are gloating over their present troubles.

I hope Canada is not one of these.

Sedalia's Leland Payton has done the photography for a unique production called, "Missouri: A Portrait in Light and Sound," which features original music by Jan Herlinger and text by Richard Rhodes.

Here's an excerpt from a descriptive brochure on "Missouri" that tells what it's all about:

"Missouri: A Portrait in Light and Sound" is conceived as an art work of monumental proportions, reflecting the land and life of the state in photographs, originally composed music, and original text. No mere exhibit through which a casual spectator might idly stroll, "Missouri" will be a controlled light-and-sound environment demanding, through its scale and quality, emotional participation on the part of the observer. It will demonstrate the unity of life and man's place in a vast and epic development. While specific in content (in dealing exclusively with the land and people of one state), "Missouri" will be universal in scope, reflecting the lives and experiences of all men and their relationship to the land they live upon."

The work is scheduled to premiere next year at the Nelson-Atkins Gallery of Art in Kansas City. It was funded by the University of Missouri Extension Service, the Kansas City Association of Trusts and Foundations and the National Endowment For the Arts.

Those low plates

The state can giveth but it cannot taketh away when it comes to low-license plates, a circuit judge has ruled.

Judge Byron Kinder directed Wednesday in Jefferson City that the law did not allow the state to revoke low license plates, since they were assigned to individuals and not to cars. The Bond administration, which wants to eliminate VIP plates, says it will appeal the decision, adding that it could lead to "an administrative nightmare."

The suit was filed by a

Montgomery City, Mo., couple who for many years have held Plate No. 1248. It was a class action filed on behalf of all low license number holders in the state, numbering some 9,000.

What is this mystique of the low license plate that causes such emotions? Do the privileged few perhaps expect special treatment at the hands of highway patrolmen, or officers who hand out parking tickets? Or are low plates prized merely because they separate the Big Men from mere six-digit commoners?

Nixon's example

If President Nixon is going to mobilize the nation to combat the energy crisis, he couldn't find a better place to start than at home—by staying there more.

The Washington Star-News Service reports that of the 44 weekends since the beginning of his second term on Jan. 20, the President has spent only four in Washington. Most of the rest of the time he has been either at his retreats at Key Biscayne, Fla., San Clemente, Calif., or Camp David, Md.

Such trips are enormously expensive in terms of aircraft fuel. For example the two round-trips the President made to Camp David on Thanksgiving weekend consumed about 300 gallons of fuel.

Mr. Nixon could set no better example during the coming months of trial than by being more of a home body. For Presidents, that used to mean the White House.

"TEN-SHUN! THE PRESIDENTIAL PARTY IS PASSING, ENROUTE TO KEY BISCAIYNE."

WASHINGTON — Confidential Senate Watergate documents show that salty-tongued Federal Maritime Chairman Helen Bentley collected at least $20,000 in donations for the Nixon campaign from the shipping industry she is supposed to regulate.

The documents describe Mrs. Bentley's dealings with the veteran shipper, Captain Leo Berger, a partner in Avon steamships of Lake Success, Long Island. Both were interviewed by committee investigators in recent weeks.

A summary of Mrs. Bentley's brief interview with committee sleuth William Mayton reports: "He asked her a few times in many different ways if she ever solicited money for the 1972 campaign and she always responded negatively."

When Berger was cross-examined, however, he confessed that he and his partner, Peter Constas, gave "$20,000 in cash to Mrs. Bentley which she gave to Stans." Former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans was President Nixon's chief fund raiser and is now under criminal indictment in the campaign contributions case of financier Robert Vesco.

The summary quotes Mrs. Bentley as telling the Senate Watergate staff that "the Avon Shipping Company had no business before her" when she passed the campaign hat. "They gave her the money because they knew that she was a Republican," and they wanted the money, according to the summary of her testimony, "to go to the GOP."

The truth is that Avon, like most shipping companies, did have business before the Federal Maritime Commission. Such firms must get certification from the commission, under Mrs. Bentley, that they have the financial means to pay for cleaning up any oil spills.

We reached Mrs. Bentley, who explained yeastily that she had told the committee staff about the certification question herself and could not understand why it was left out of the summary of her interview.

Merry-go-round

Maritime head took cash for Nixon bid

At Avon, Captain Berger defended the chairman, saying there had been no solicitation. His campaign contribution, he said, "was voluntary." Then he added brusquely: "I said everything I'm going to say before the committee. Goodnight."

Despite the gruff sea captain's modesty about his contributions, our investigation backs up the Watergate committee's finding. The records of secret cash contributions to the Nixon campaign show a "Captain Leo Berger" and "Peter Constas," both listed at Avon's Lake Success address, each gave $10,000.

FOOTNOTE: In September 1970, we reported how Mrs. Bentley was asked by then Vice President Spiro Agnew to pass the hat in shipping circles for an Agnew crony running for governor of Maryland. Dutifully, she contacted about 10 "top echelon shipping executives," she admitted.

INTELLIGENCE DIGEST: Despite official denials, U.S. intelligence agencies have established that the Soviets have delivered nuclear warheads to Egypt. Apparently, the warheads haven't been turned over to the Egyptians but are kept under the control of a special Soviet nuclear unit. Intelligence reports warn that the Kremlin has been pressuring the Arab nations to nationalize Western oil holdings. The reports suggest that the Soviets may hope to start tapping the Arab oil fields for themselves, because their own oil fields in rugged Siberia are becoming increasingly difficult to develop. Diplomatic reports indicate that the NATO allies may be closing ranks after their initial shock over the Arab oil embargo. At first, the NATO partners began scrambling for themselves for vital oil supplies. But allied leaders, apparently, have suddenly been jolted into recognizing the danger of dividing the West. Quiet new moves have been made to restore more consultation and cooperation.

One intelligence report tells of an exchange between the cease-fire negotiators, Israel's Maj. Gen. Ahron Yariv and Egypt's Lt. Gen. Mohamed Gamasi. Yariv asked whether they should turn the negotiations over to civilians. Gamasi readily agreed. "Tomorrow," he said, "let us return in civilian clothes." ... A State Department telegram, intended for official eyes only, reveals how the United States has been aiding the nation that has cut off our oil. The United States has established a military logistical support system for Saudi Arabia. Because the Saudi army hasn't developed "the required degree of expertise" to manage the system, states the telegram, "limited US (government's) assistance will be required." ... Intelligence reports quote Saudi Arabian leaders as saying one reason for the oil boycott was to break what they believed to be the Zionist hold on the U.S. press and bring the Arab story forcibly to the attention of the American public.

Labor group finds job prejudice

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Life begins at 40 is a saying that may be fit for a birthday party. But it may take on a bitter taste for many in the senior league if they look for a new job.

The International Labor Organization has begun an inquiry into the status of the older working people and a preliminary survey stressed the "need to fight prejudice and discrimination."

Close to one billion men and women, more than a fourth of the world population, are 40 or older and in the industrialized countries of both West and East the ratio is already one in three. Forecasts cited by ILO say the proportion of older people will continue to increase because of better health care.

According to data from major industrialized countries, workers over 45 can count on waiting four times as long for a new job as youths under 20. People who are 50 and older make up two-thirds of all long-time unemployed in "some countries."

"Manual laborers are usually hit first and hardest," the ILO survey said. "Perhaps the best insurance against losing one's job is high professional qualification coupled with lifelong education and training."

"Office workers and executives are also affected. After difficult and long struggle, some give up. Psychiatric clinics are full of these middle-aged dropouts."

"The unemployment rate for aging women has long been somewhat higher than for men. This gap has been widening recently."

The survey said age discrimination exists both openly and hidden, describing the fixed age limit for a job as "the clearest sign of this bias."

Discriminatory practices are also applied in layoffs, pay, promotion, leave and other employment conditions, according to ILO.

"Behind these practices lie preconceived notions many employers have about workers at a certain age. These employers allege and believe that older workers are less flexible, slower, less resistant and consequently less productive. Often, too, they hesitate to spend money to train or retrain older workers" because of the relatively short time of service still ahead.

Several countries have already taken steps to give the older workers a better deal. The survey noted. France, for example, has banned age limits in jobs-offered ads. Belgium has introduced financial incentives for employment of older workers and Sweden has lengthened the minimum period of dismissal notice for people older than 45. The state-owned industry in Communist countries is "normally required to carry their older workers up to the time when they are eligible for retirement pensions."

Is magnesium in food needed?

Dear Dr. Lamb — I should like to know what is the purpose or the need for magnesium and potassium in foods?

Also, it is my understanding that watermelon contains a great deal of potassium. Is that true?

Dear Reader — There has been lots of excitement about magnesium, more excitement than facts. It is a light weight metal, and it is essential to the body. Most of it is stored in the bones. It is important in the actions of the vital enzymes that we use in processing our food to energy.

Magnesium, and other minerals, with potassium, sodium, and calcium all are important in the delicate balance of chemicals within our muscle and nerve cells. When the balance gets out of kilter, nerve and muscle function go awry. The heart muscle may not contract properly, nerves may become easily excited resulting in twitches or worse, and muscles may cramp. It's the balance of all of these and other minerals that keeps things functioning right.

Despite exaggerated claims by some nonmedical enthusiasts, the evidence that there are any real problems about magnesium deficiencies in the population at large is very meager or nonexistent. Much misinformation is given to the public on these matters in so-called health magazines. The truth is that magnesium is widespread in our food. It is hard to eat without getting enough of it.

The two main groups of people who often do have magnesium deficiencies are the alcoholics and those people taking water pills or medicines to flush out water through the kidneys. Such medicines are used in heart failure, high blood pressure, and by some women to relieve the problems of pre-menstrual tension with water retention. If none of these apply to you, the chances are that you are getting enough magnesium.

Potassium is one of the main chemicals in our cells. We have mostly sodium chloride salt in the water outside our cells and inside we have mostly potassium phosphate. The phosphate is particularly important in the cell functions needed to generate energy. Did you know your cells use those phosphates to make high energy compounds to run the whole energy system of the body? It's our stored energy source.

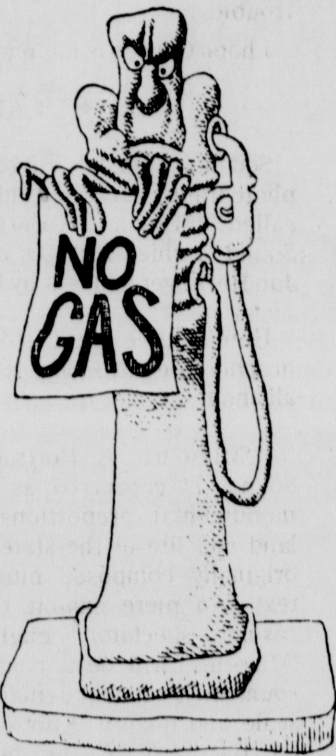

Potassium is in a lot of foods, but fruits, melons and berries are the best sources of it. Watermelon has a lot of potassium, specifically 100 milligrams in three-and-half ounces (100 grams). That is about half as much as a similar weight of orange juice.

If you drink orange juice regularly you will be getting enough potassium, unless you have a medical problem. Even then three glasses of orange juice a day will provide as much potassium as most doctors like to prescribe in medicines.

Patients taking digitalis-type medicines for heart trouble need to be particularly careful to keep their chemicals in balance. Inadequate amounts of body potassium can affect how the heart responds to the medicine.

South decided that he couldn't. In that case how could South make his contract? South worked it out. He simply played the ace of clubs; a club to dummy's king and dummy's jack of clubs. East was in the lead with the queen.

He couldn't lead his fourth club. That would allow South to discard the eight of diamonds and ruff in dummy. So East led a low diamond and South let it ride around to dummy's queen.

DEAR POLLY — As a child we had a bowl of narcissus with the bulbs covered with pebbles. There were some instructions about keeping them in the dark for a certain length of time but I do not remember what they were. I would like to force some bulbs and hope someone can tell me how to do it. — SHIRLEY.

DEAR POLLY — I am answering Isobel regarding the sheets, bedspreads and pillows that are too large for her king-size bed. We have never bought anything for ours other than the extra large regular sheets. I use such sheets on both top and bottom and put them on the bed lengthwise with the hems down the sides. With the large regular bedspread I use pretty dust ruffles and it presents a neat appearance. Also I use three regular size pillows for a neat looking bed. When the slips are too long I turn them inside out, cut off the seams end to make them the desired length and sew together. This eliminates those long bulky ends. — F.E.D.

DEAR POLLY — To keep the soil from falling through the holes in the bottoms of my flower pots I plug the holes with small pieces of nylon hose and the excess water can still flow through. — LORI.

DEAR POLLY — I keep a potato masher from a child's cooking set in my cutting drawer and find it indispensable when making deviled eggs. It is small enough to use in a small bowl when mashing a few egg yolks. — MRS. H. H. S.

DEAR POLLY — Those who like my Pointer will want to start now to be ready for the holidays. Many companies offer toys for labels sent in with a small amount of money and the company making the paper towels I always use offer a toy just for labels. I have been collecting such toys to give to an organization which collects toys for needy children at Christmas. The toys I now have on hand amount to much more than I could afford to give if I had to purchase them for full price. We have no children in our family. All such coupons are used for this purpose. — ALMA.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — We are all human and subject to mistakes and I forgive business firms for that but my Pet Peeve is that if we fail to send enough for postage for something ordered we get billed for those few cents. If they make a mistake in postage we have to pay the extra when the package is delivered and they never think of that. Thanks for letting me sound off. — NORMA.

Ann Landers

Reader was sure letters are fake

Dear Ann Landers: When I first started to read your column I was sure you made up those letters. I couldn't believe people did those things. A straight reporting job out of Wellfleet, Mass., which I read today has convinced me that truth is indeed stranger than fiction.

It seems a socialite movie star was married in Cape Cod to the granddaughter of a famous dress designer. She was barefooted. He wore 15-year-old white buckskin shoes. His collie, Murray, was the best man. The couple announced before the wedding that they are expecting a baby.

What's going on? Or am I crazy? — Mystified In Massachusetts.

Dear Mys: More people are abandoning tradition and doing their own thing.

One of the duties of the best man is to hand the bride's wedding ring to the groom. I wonder how Murray managed it. It appears that a dog is not only man's best friend, but on occasion can be friend's best man.

Dear Ann Landers: I picked up my wife's brother last night to drive him to a lodge meeting. We've been buddies since we played on the high school basketball team together. When he noticed a big dent in the rear of my car he asked what happened. I told him some creep hit me from behind and I haven't found time to take the car into the shop. His next question was, "Are you going to sue the guy for a back injury?" I told him I had my seatbelt on and luckily I wasn't hurt. He gave me a look of disgust and muttered, "You're an idiot. With a smashed rear end like that you could claim a back injury and collect plenty. Nobody can prove your back wasn't hurt if you say you've got terrible pain."

I have no intention of following his advice because I don't believe in those rinky-dinks but I'd like to know if what he says is true. Wouldn't an injury show up on an X-ray? How about it? — Straight and Narrow.

Dear S & N: Torn ligaments and pulled muscles don't show up on X-rays, but even so, it's not easy to fool the insurance company's examining physicians. They know every trick in the book, having witnessed them all a few hundred times. An astute doctor can tell a great deal by the way a person walks, stands, sits in a chair and gets up from a chair. Once the "patient" is tagged as a claim-faker he has a very difficult time getting any more coverage and that's a bad spot to be in.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm in my middle twenties, and live several hundred miles away from my family. I am not married and am very pregnant. I won't explain here why it isn't feasible for my beloved to marry me at this time but we hope to make it legal next year. My question is this: My mother plans to visit me in three weeks. I will be in my eighth month. Would it be kinder to write and tell her before she arrives (I'm sure it will be very upsetting) or should I wait and let her see for herself? — Happy But Not Content.

Dear H. But Not C.: By all means prepare your mother in advance — by letter. It will be easier for her to READ the news than to see it.

Confidential to Quo Vadis: Choose your own direction. How will he take it? The same way any other humble, self-effacing egomaniac would react to being dumped.

Second hearing on complexes set

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A second hearing on proposed federal air pollution standards for complexes such as sports stadiums, large parking lots and highway intersections will be held here Dec. 10.

At a hearing Thursday, those who attended complained not enough advance notice had been given and EPA representatives from Kansas City acknowledged that notification came too late.

The rules are to be approved by Dec. 15 under a federal court order that resulted from a suit by environmentalists in Washington, D.C. An EPA spokesman said it was doubtful the Dec. 15 deadline would be met.

The rules would take effect 180 days after promulgation and provide that states prohibit construction of roads or complexes that would generate vehicular traffic to an extent so as to prevent air pollution standards from being enforced.

Walter Nowotny, an assistant attorney general, testified that Missouri law does not authorize state officials from stopping building projects, as called for in the rules.

John Ellinger, representing the Associated General Contractors of Missouri, said the rules "could virtually bring to a halt construction in Missouri."

He said the construction industry was already "depressed" in the state with high unemployment and 20 per cent of projects stalled because of the energy crisis. He said the proposal was "hasty" and urged the rules be delayed and carefully studied.

Harvey Shell, executive director of the Missouri Air Conservation Commission, told newsmen there are many legal uncertainties connected with the proposed new rules and the state legislature may have to resolve them.

Shell said the rules amount to federal planning and zoning, which he said could best be handled by state or local authorities. If the rules are enacted, Shell said, he would like to see a state law passed to give him the authority to enforce them.

More day baseball?

Energy crisis poses threat to recreation

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The nation's energy crisis doesn't stop at your neighborhood gas station or your living room thermostat. It's likely to reach beyond right into your recreation time and your occupation with the world of sports.

For example, with gasoline in short supply, you might choose to use your quota for more important trips than a ride out to the ball park to watch the local team play.

That possibility hasn't been lost on sports administrators and the subject is being studied on several fronts. It is due for at least a cursory examination at the baseball meetings in Houston next week.

Baseball, of course, could be directly affected because so many games are played each season at night with artificial lights.

The California Angels announced this week that they would reduce the number of games played under the lights in Anaheim by 12.3 per cent next season.

"If they tell us we can't play night ball because of the electrical power drain, we can't exist," said Calvin Griffith, president of the Minnesota Twins. "From a business standpoint, we simply cannot play during the day. We couldn't even pay our hospital insurance with what we'd draw with all-day baseball."

There is also the matter of air travel and the cutbacks of flights because the fuel shortage. Baseball is considering returning to train transportation for short trips. Trains provided the main source of transportation for clubs before expansion to the West Coast in 1958. Planes, of course, would still be used for cross-country travel.

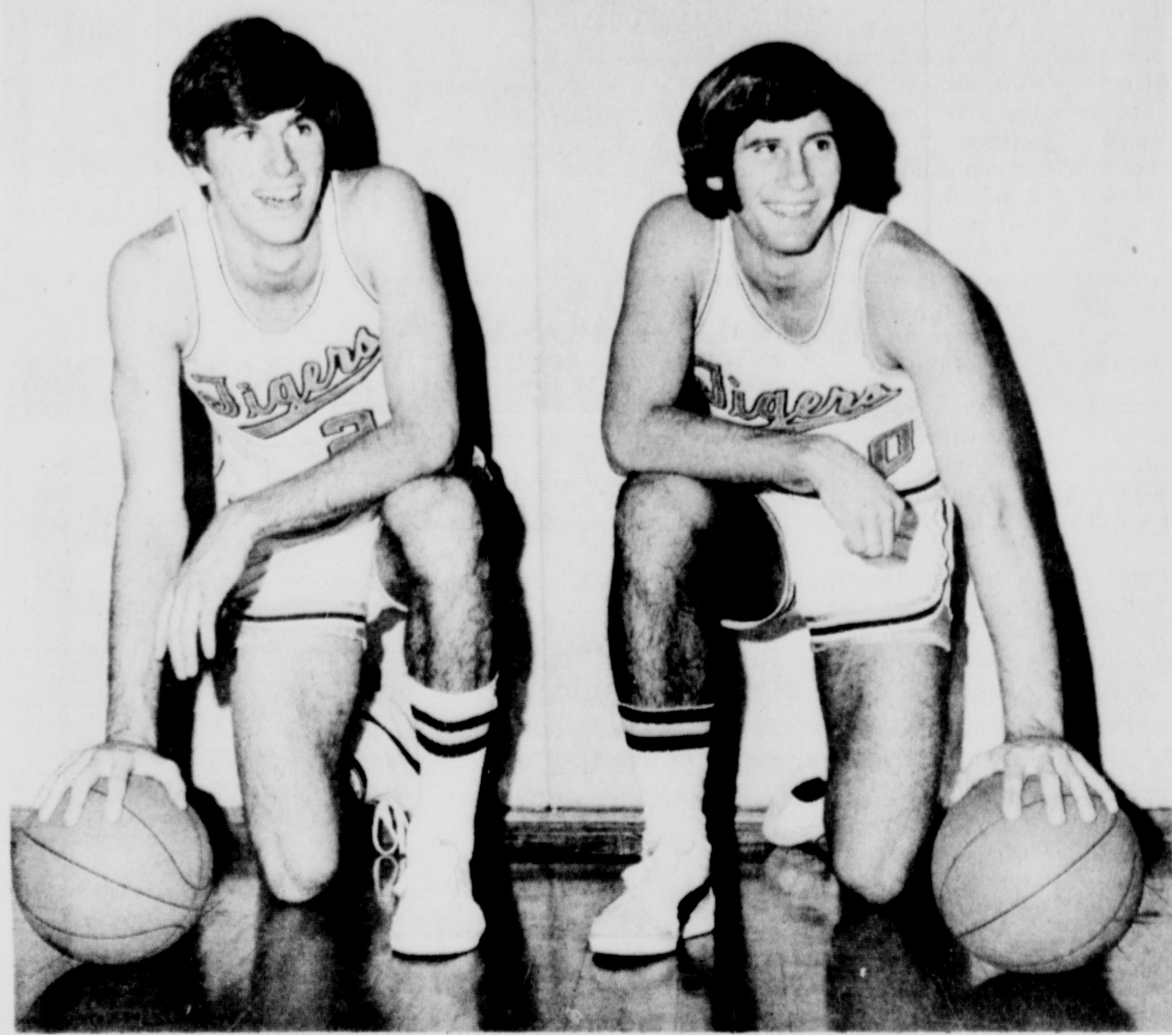

Football isn't as directly concerned because there is less frequent travel and most games are played during the day. The golf circuit depends heavily on air travel for players to get from tournament to tournament. Many expressed concern over the problem.

Basketball and hockey teams also do a majority of their travel on charter air planes and the cutbacks have those sports worried too.

Like baseball, hockey plays virtually its entire schedule at night with artificial lighting and is dependent on power supplies to keep ice surfaces refrigerated.

Considerable attention has been directed at auto racing where, after all, the chief attraction is cars chasing around motor raceway tracks, burning fuel. John Cooper, executive secretary of the National Motorsports Committee, bristles at the criticism and says auto racing fuel use is "insignificant compared to the total consumption."

Because it takes gas to reach slopes most ski resorts are likely to feel the energy pinch earliest. The Sunday ban on the sale of gas particularly irked resort owners. There are plans being drawn up in the Northeast and West to arrange for car pools so skiers can still reach their destinations.

Tiger co-captains

Jim Sanders (left) and Mike Best, two seniors who were recently named as the 1973-74 Smith-Cotton Tigers basketball co-captains, will lead the Bengals into tonight's home opener against St. Louis Central, in the first round of the Smith-Cotton Invitational Tournament. Sanders, who can play inside or outside, was named by the Missouri Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association to the Class-L all-district team last year. He was named to the all-league as a junior, also. Best, who transferred to Sedalia from Hannibal two years ago, was an all-Central Missouri Conference selection as a guard last season. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Sacred Heart ends five-game skid, 65-58

Gremlins claim seventh in tournament

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

TIPTON — It was, needless to say, a good feeling for Tom Beer and his Sacred Heart Gremlins to get back on the winning track. It had been a while — nearly two weeks, in fact.

"It feels good to get back in the win column," Beer said after the Grems downed Otterville, 65-58, here Thursday night to claim seventh place in the Tipton Invitational Basketball Tournament. The win stopped a five-game losing streak, which Sacred Heart had been on since the Kaysinger Conference Tournament two weeks ago.

"I'll admit we didn't look too stylish in winning the game, but at least it's a victory," Beer continued. "Maybe it will help us regain some confidence. Our young kids need that more right now than anything else."

Despite the fact the Gremlins had three players foul out and two others were in foul trouble in the fourth quarter with four each, Sacred Heart hung on for the victory, the team's second against five losses.

Mark Register, Jeff Brown and Tony Lock were all whistled out of the game. Jim McMullin and Randy Johnson had four when the final buzzer sounded.

Otterville also had its trouble in the foul department, with Randy Williams, Rusty Schilb and Ronnie Thomas all taking a seat early with five apiece.

Sacred Heart broke on top early, holding a precarious, 18-15 lead at the end of the first period.

Otterville, which stayed close all the way, found itself trailing by seven, 24-17, after Lock hit a layup with 6:38 to go in the half. The Eagles crept to within five two minutes later, but a six-point spurt got Sacred Heart back on the right track with just under three minutes to play.

Two charity throws each by McMullin and Johnson and a field goal by Johnson from the top of the key, brought Sacred Heart its biggest lead of the half at 30-21 with 2:51 showing.

Joe Bellmer put the Gremlins ahead 35-25 by the time the half time buzzer sounded.

Sacred Heart also held a 10-point bulge at the end of the third period, 49-39.

Thomas sparked the Eagles midway through the last stanza, hitting three left-handed running hook shots. Thomas' last one brought Otterville within six, 60-54, with 2:42 remaining.

However, Register offset that at 2:10, and Lock rammed one home off a steal with 1:49 showing, which cushioned the Grems' lead back to 10 points.

Lock wound up with 18 points to lead the Sacred Heart attack. McMullin and Johnson followed with 15 and 11.

Thomas shared the scoring lead with Eddie Thomas for the Eagles; each netted 14. Robbie Young added 12.

Jefferson City, first-seeded in the tourney, had little trouble in disposing of the host Cardinals in the upper-bracket semifinal game, 77-48.

The Jays ran up a 9-0 lead in the first six minutes of the contest, before Fred Norman broke the ice for Tipton.

Jefferson City turned cold for the balance of the quarter, allowing the Cards to get within four, 13-9, by the time the period ran its course.

The Jays' cold shooting continued in the early minutes of the second stanza, and Tipton snatched the lead at 7:21 on a three-point play by Archie Edwards, 14-13.

A free throw by Jim Marcantonio knotted the count at 14-all. Jefferson City's Jeff Sanders followed that with a field goal at 6:44, putting the Jays back in front.

But Alfred Chism tied it again for Tipton, 16-16, with a shot from the wing at 5:52.

From then on the Cardinals slowly faded. The clincher came in the last minute and a half, when Jefferson City outscored Tipton, 10-2, taking a 37-24 lead into the dressing room.

From then on the game was out of reach for the Cardinals.

Mark Smith, Marcantonio and Jim Humphreys all hit in double figures for the Jays with 20, 19 and 16 points respectively.

Norman topped the Tipton effort with 14.

Sacred Heart has a full week before its next outing against Jefferson City Helias, Dec. 8 at home.

The Tipton tourney winds up tonight. Jefferson City and Versailles meet for the championship at 9:15. Tipton and Fulton are paired in the third place game at 7:45 p.m.

The night's schedule gets underway at 6:15 p.m., when Eldon and Helias clash for the consolation trophy.

Mahaffey holds two-stroke lead

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (AP) — Baby-faced John Mahaffey is bubbling with confidence as he takes aim on a second pro golf tour triumph for the season.

"I know I can win now," the 25-year-old second-year pro said Thursday when he established a two-stroke lead after two rounds of the $150,000 Walt Disney World Open Golf Tournament.

Mahaffey, who looks much younger than his years, won his first pro tournament just a little more than a month ago in the Sahara Invitational.

And his four-under-par 68 in chill, breezy weather gave him a two-round total of 137, seven under par, and a two-stroke lead in the race for the $30,000 first prize.

The group at 139 included Lou Graham, Dwight Nevil and three rookies — Nate Starks, Larry Nelson and Dr. Gil Morgan, an optometrist who graduated from the Tournament Players Division school as an approved tournament player just a month ago.

Jack Nicklaus managed a 71 but still remained very much in contention for his seventh victory of the season. Nicklaus, the only champion this tournament has had, is at 141, three under par and just four back of the leader.

Arnold Palmer, Lee Trevino, Tom Weiskopf and Johnny Miller are not competing in this, the last event of the year on the long, long tour schedule.

First round leaders Grief Jones and Larry Wise fell off the pace. Jones had a 73-140 and Wise went to a 77 for 144.

But their troubles were nothing compared with the difficulties encountered by rookie sensation Ben Crenshaw. Crenshaw, who had won and finished second in his two previous starts, went to a fat 80 — including a horrendous nine on one hole — and failed to qualify for the final two rounds.

Cole Camp earns championship berth

COLE CAMP — Second-seeded Cole Camp will take on LaMonte for the championship of the Fourth-annual Cole Camp Volleyball Tournament at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, as a result of the host Blue Birds' victory over Stover in Thursday night's semifinals.

Cole Camp gained entry into the championship contest winning two straight, 15-12, 15-9.

In consolation division action, Warsaw eliminated Lincoln, 15-7, 15-4.

Action breaks Friday night. Northwest and Warsaw kick off Saturday's schedule at 6:30 p.m. in the consolation game. Smithton and Stover will tangle at 7:30 p.m. for the third-place trophy.

Bosox pitcher undergoes surgery

BOSTON (AP) — Rogelio Moret, the Boston Red Sox' hard-throwing southpaw pitcher, was scheduled for surgery at Hahnemann Hospital Friday for repair of torn cartilage in the right knee.

Moret re-injured his knee while playing winter ball in Puerto Rico. He originally was hurt last April 22 when he tripped over the first base bag in a game at Cleveland.

John Mais tourney tickets on sale

They may be purchased from Merlyn McCown, Route 2; Earnest Buso, 3209 South Missouri; Bill Berry, 1302 East 15th; and Earl Gerke, Western View Mobile Home Park.

The tournament is scheduled to open Dec. 26 at Sacred Heart High School.

Longview still undecided

Kansas City, Kan. Community College has asked the charter members of the newly-formed Greater Kansas City Community College Conference that they not be considered for membership for the 1974-75 season.

KCKCC notified State Fair Community College President Fred Davis of the school's decision earlier this week. Davis said in an interview Thursday Kansas City, Kan., will remain in the Jayhawk Conference for another year.

He went on to say he felt the school would seek admission for the 1975-76 season.

The GK4C was formed earlier this month in Kansas City, with seven Missouri-Kansas junior colleges entering as charter members. The members decided to give Kansas City, Kan., as well as Longview Community College of Lee's Summit additional time to consider their entrance into the league as charter members.

Kansas City, Kan. will wait one year

Both institutions were given until Saturday to make a decision for the 1974-75 season.

Davis said he had not received any word from Longview, however, he was optimistic that the school would seek admission for the first year of competition.

In addition to State Fair, the charter members are Maple Woods and Penn Valley Community Colleges of Kansas City; Trenton Junior College; Johnson County, Kan.; Community College; Highland, Kan.; Community Junior College and Haskell American Indian Junior College of Lawrence, Kan.

Sellout crowd expected

Sooners, Pokes close out Big 8 grid slate

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Second-ranked Oklahoma gets its last chance to impress the pollsters Saturday when the Sooners tackle arch-rival Oklahoma State in the final Big Eight clash of the season.

The Sooners reached their peak performance last weekend when they shut out a strong Nebraska club, 27-0, clinching the Big Eight championship.

The muscular Cowboys are having their ups and downs. They were down last week when they ventured to Iowa State and were clobbered, 28-12.

It will be the 68th renewal of what is known in these parts as college football's "Bedlam Series." Kickoff is set for 1:30 p.m. (CST) before a sellout crowd of 50,622.

The game pits the Big Eight's two leading rushing offenses. The Sooners, quarterbacked by sophomore sensation Steve Davis, have averaged 372 yards per game while the Cowboys, paced by senior signal caller Brent Blackman, have rushed at a 305-yard clip.

Coincidentally, the two teams are No. 1 and 2 in defense against the rush.

The Sooners, led by nose-guard Lucious Selmon and line-backer Rod Shoate, have given up just 102 yards per game via the ground. Last week, Oklahoma allowed the Huskers to cross midfield just once.

The Cowboy defense, anchored by tackle Barry Price and line-backer Cleveland Vann, has permitted only 148 yards rushing per contest.

But emotion, not statistics, will be the key to the outcome of this game, says Sooners coach Barry Switzer.

"Oklahoma State has some great players," he said. "I know because we tried to recruit them."

"They'll be sky high for us. It'll be the toughest game we'll play this year. We've won the Big Eight; now we've got to play for the championship of Oklahoma."

The top Sooner rusher is half-back Joe Washington, a flashy sophomore who has rushed for more than 100 yards in each of the last eight games. Washington leads the Big Eight with 1,113 yards and a 6.8 per carry average.

Fullback Waymon Clark needs only 56 yards rushing to break the 1,000 yard barrier. Only two other times in NCAA history have two players on the same team rushed for 1,000 yards in the same season. And it was the Sooners both times, with Billy Vessels and Buck McPhail in 1952 and Greg Pruitt and Jack Mildren in 1971.

Oklahoma is 9-0-1, having tied Southern California, 7-7, early in the season.

Oklahoma leads the series 51-10-6 and has won 25 out of the last 27 games.

Fallon services set for Saturday

SOUTH EASTON, Mass. (AP) — Services will be held at Holy Cross Church Saturday morning for veteran sportscaster Frank Fallon, 77, who died of a heart attack at his home Thursday.

One of New England's most popular sportscasters for nearly one-half century, Fallon broadcast many events, including hockey, boxing, wrestling, bowling and various college sports.

In Hutchinson, Kan.

State Fair takes on Fairbury, Neb. tonight

(Democrat-Capital Service)

HUTCHINSON, Kan. — State Fair Community College, which earned a championship berth here last year in the Hutchinson Blue Dragon Doubleheader against the host club, tips off tonight at 7 p.m. against Nebraska (Fairbury) Southern Community College in the opening round of the four-team tournament.

In the night's second game, Hutchinson, which had to forfeit its 29-4 record and its runner-up finish in the national JuCo tourney last year because of using an ineligible player, takes on Highland, Kan.

The tournament continues Saturday night with tonight's winners meeting for the championship at 9 p.m.

The Roadrunners, 3-2 following last week's second-place finish in the Mineral Area Classic in Flat River, Mo., are coming off their best week of practice, according to Bill Barton, SFCC's fourth-year coach.

"I thought we worked harder this week than at any other time to date," Barton said this morning.

Barton said he will stay with the lineup he's used in the first five outings. Charles Shell, who is rapidly closing in on the all-time Roadrunner's scoring lead, will lead Barton's charge from his forward spot.

Colles Webb, who missed two days of practice this week due to the flu, will team with him on the front line.

Six-foot-nine freshman Stan McNeill, who was held scoreless last week in the MAC championship game, will start at center. Sophomore Jack Easley and freshman Jerry Bybee get the nods in backcourt.

Fairbury brings to the tournament a 2-2 record. Chicago sophomore Freddie Rogers (6-7) leads the Bombers' attack at center.

"They aren't really that big inside," noted Barton. "but they can jump."

This will be the first meeting ever between SFCC and Fairbury, which finished 20-6 last season under Coach Gary Borgen.

Hutchinson may be without the services of their leading scorer Teko Wynder, a 6-5 sophomore from Hampton, Va. Wynder suffered an ankle sprain Wednesday, and Coach Gene Keady was unsure of his availability for the weekend tourney.

The Blue Dragons are 2-1 and will be making their home debut in the 9 p.m. contest tonight. Hutch lost to Mesa, Ariz., 77-72, in the opening game of the Thanksgiving tourney in Phoenix, Ariz. Hutch won its next two games — 100-82 over Mesa, Colo., and 97-81, over St. George, Utah.

Highland is off to a disappointing 1-4 start. Three of those losses came in the Burlington, Iowa Tournament last week.

State Fair has one more road game before returning home Dec. 6. Tuesday the Roadrunners take on arch-rival Penn Valley Community College in Kansas City.

Bennett heads scorers in Kaysinger Conference

LaMonte's Glyndon "Buggar" Bennett is picking up where he left off last season, when he led the Kaysinger Conference in scoring.

Bennett, who averaged 24 points for Coach Larry Ficken's squad last season, is only one point off his 1972-73 pace with a 23.0 mark.

Bennett leads the league by more than four points per game in the first report released Thursday.

Rusty Templemire, the conference's leading rebounder last season, is second in the scoring race with a mark of 19.8.

Harry Goosen of Cole Camp, has hauled in an average of 17.7 rebounds, and holds a wide lead over Templemire (11.7) in that department.

Templemire tops the conference in field goal percentage with a torrid mark of 82 per cent.

Terry Newgaard has a free throw percentage of 81 to head the league in that department.

Following Bennett and Templemire in the scoring race are: Rod Ingram, Lincoln (18.6); Alan Meyer, Northwest (18.0); Kent Scotten, Green Ridge (16.2); Harry Goosen, Cole Camp (15.3); Newgaard (14.8); Don Hittaffer, LaMonte (13.8); Ron Hodges, Stover (13.3); and LaMonte's Larry Whitworth (12.5).

Service station operators petition for financial relief

By BOB FICK
Associated Press Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Representatives of service station operators across the country have started a petition drive urging Congress to give them relief from a financial pinch caused by the energy crisis and price controls.

Dealer representatives met in St. Louis Thursday and drafted a six-point petition demanding that Congress not allow coupon rationing or an increase in the federal gasoline excise tax.

The petition also called for releasing station operators from Phase 4 price controls, relaxing emission standards on new cars for the duration of the energy crisis, prohibiting refiners of petroleum products from selling the products at retail and imposing the same maximum speed limit for all vehicles, in contrast with President Nixon's proposal for a maximum speed limit of 50 m.p.h. for cars and 55 for trucks and inter-city buses.

E. E. "Bud" Welch of the Oklahoma Independent Petroleum Retailers Association, one of 40 representatives at the meeting, said the goal of the campaign is to present Congress with petitions containing 25 million signatures. He said it was hoped that 10,000 dealers would march on the Capitol in January to present the petitions.

"We're staging this march just to dramatize the fact that the free enterprise system is being eroded more and more each day," Welch said after the meeting.

"There's a cancer eating away at independent businesses and that cancer is the big corporations. It hasn't been checked yet, and we intend to check it," he said.

Dealers at the meeting said they represented 28 state and regional associations with about 100,000 members in 48 states.

Spokesmen said the dealers are caught in a financial squeeze because they are limited under Phase 4 guidelines to a profit of seven cents a gallon, while gasoline production is being reduced.

Bob Doulette of the New Hampshire-Vermont Gasoline Retailers Association said many station operators are receiving 15 to 50 per cent less gasoline than they did before the energy crisis, and President Nixon has proposed an additional 15 per cent cutback in gasoline production at refineries.

"Many dealers have already gone out of business. The only way they can make a living wage at the job is to raise their profit. But because of Phase 4, they can't do that," Doulette said.

"The only thing we want to do is make up for our loss in volume. We're not looking to fight the oil companies. We're just looking to make a living."

Jupiter 'upside down'

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — The U.S. Pioneer 10 space probe has revealed that Jupiter, magnetically speaking, is an upside down planet.

If you could fly to Jupiter with a compass and stand among its swirling clouds or float upon the oceans of liquid hydrogen believed there, the compass needle would point south. On earth it would point north.

Scientists monitoring Pioneer 10 said Thursday the discovery that Jupiter's magnetic field is oriented towards its south pole is a significant finding that confirms what astronomers had suspected for several years based on the study of radio noise from the planet. Pioneer 10 was about 2.7 million miles from Jupiter early today, traveling at 36,200 miles per hour. The 570-pound unmanned spacecraft is being tugged harder and harder by the planet's gravity, which is 2.6 times greater than earth's.

Controllers said Pioneer continued to perform flawlessly, returning data to earth across 500 million miles of space. Scientists said color pictures of the planet with its concentric bands of multicolored clouds already equal the detail of pictures obtained by earth telescopes on a typical evening of viewing.

There were heated calls at the meeting for a protest march on the Capitol next week, but the dealers decided on the petition approach to Congress instead.

"Now we're fighting for the free enterprise system to take care of allocations and rationing. Free enterprise works if Nixon will let it, and right now we need it more than ever," Strauser said.

There were heated calls at the meeting for a protest march on the Capitol next week, but the dealers decided on the petition approach to Congress instead.

Burley tobacco bidding breaks record again

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Bidding for burley tobacco across Kentucky broke the previous day's records for the third day in a row Thursday as buyers pushed the average up $3.21 from the day before.

Reports from the 29 market cities holding sales indicated that 15,935,550 pounds of burley brought $14,544,250.08, an average of $91.27 per hundredweight in the last day of the opening week of sales.

The day's highest average, $93.18 per hundred pounds, was reported at Lebanon, where farmers sold 607,186 pounds of tobacco.

The lowest was reported at Paducah, where $88.89 was the average on volume of 250,394.

In many warehouses across the state, most tobacco was selling for $90 and $91 per hundredweight, with some bringing $95.

Announces schedule for OATS

The December traveling schedule for the Older Adults Transportation System (OATS) was released Thursday by director Charles Haley.

Haley noted that on the days when OATS buses arrive in Sedalia at 11 a.m., their departure time in the afternoon will be indefinite, depending on what time the passengers from area towns desire to return to their homes. While the buses are in Sedalia, they will be available for in-town runs until departure time, he said.

The schedule is as follows: Monday, Warsaw bus to Kansas City; Wednesday morning, Leeton, Windsor and Green Ridge to Sedalia (11 a.m.); Dec. 7 (morning) Montserrat, Knob Noster, LaMonte and Smithton to Sedalia (11 a.m.); Dec. 10, Warsaw to Sedalia; Dec. 11 (morning) Knob Noster, LaMonte, Dresden, Houstonia and Hughesville to Sedalia (11 a.m.).

Gas, not gasoline supplied by company

Due to a typographical error, it was reported in Thursday's Sedalia Democrat that Missouri Public Service Co. anticipated no immediate curtailment of its gasoline supply. The firm does not deal in gasoline. The company said it foresaw no immediate problem in its natural gas and electrical power supplies.

Few things in life worry a Volkswagen.

Gas shortage worry a Volkswagen? Not while the VW Beetle gets about 25<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub> miles per gallon. In fact, if every car used as little gas as a VW, there wouldn't be any threat of a gas shortage to begin with.

Campus TV is explained to Kiwanis Club

Sedalia Kiwanians heard a talk about the campus television station at Central Missouri State University at their meeting Thursday noon at the Bothwell Hotel.

Tom Volner, a senior at CMSU, explained the operation of CMS-TV at Warrensburg, which was started in 1969. Volner is a mass communications major specializing in public relations.

CMS-TV serves 5,200 homes in Warrensburg by cable or microwave. Volner said, and broadcasts three hours of locally-originated programming each day. Students have the opportunity to work in various aspects of TV production, he said.

Volner showed several color slides of scenes at CMS-TV. He was introduced by Lynn Harrison.

Guests were Bill Jackson, with the Rev. Greg Hibbard, and Capt. John Metcalf, New Orleans, with Dr. D. R. Edwards.
